We would like to invite you to participate in the BSHS Annual Conference to be held at University of Aberdeen, 22-25 July 2010. This meeting does not have a specific theme but will include papers presented by around 110 historians of science, technology and medicine and their colleagues in the wider scholarly community from the UK, several European countries, the USA and elsewhere. Our attendees will include those active in the following fields in addition to historians of science, technology and medicine:

- | | |
|-------------------------|----------------|
| ○ Science studies | ○ Teachers |
| ○ Historical geography | ○ Museum staff |
| ○ Sociology of science | ○ Archivists |
| ○ Philosophy of science | ○ Librarians |

The meeting will also include outreach and education activities particularly aimed at encouraging the last four categories (among others) to attend. A draft programme will soon be available at <http://www.bsbs.org.uk> . Total attendance over the conference is expected to be at least 130 individual delegates.

We are able to offer the following opportunities to participate in the conference

- Advertisements in the conference programme

This aspect of the conference is being coordinated by Malcolm Noble, mjn13@le.ac.uk . If you have any questions, or would like further information, please do not hesitate to contact him.

We can also offer the opportunity to reach our members through including inserts with mailings of our newsletter, Viewpoint . Please contact the Executive Secretary, Lucy Tetlow, office@bsbs.org.uk for details.
